These contempt of courts proceedings are pending since 1996. Respondents were to consider the petitioner's representation and dispose of the same in accordance with our previous orders. The respondents, on the other hand, have proceeded with the matter and convened the DPC. The counsel for the respondents states that in case the petitioner succeeds, they undertake to implement the recommendations of the DPC and pay all the dues including arrears, to the petitioner. The respondents seek six weeks time to complete all the formalities. A perusal of the order complained against shows that direction was only for the disposal of the representation and since the respondents are now undertaking to do complete justice in the matter, we deem it fit and proper to dispose of the contempt petition with a direction to the respondents to comply with the undertaking given before this court within six weeks from today and these contempt of courts proceedings are dropped ~~and~~ and notices are discharged. In the event no compliance takes place within the stipulated period, the petitioner is at liberty to revive this contempt petition through an Misc. application.
