work becomes available.

3. It is not denied that pursuant to the aforesaid order dated 16.05.2000, applicants were offered appointment and we are informed that three out of four applicants had rejoined duties but were subsequently disengaged in January 2001 owing to lack of work, as contended by respondents.

Now that the hot weather season is approaching, and by the Tribunal's order dated 16.05.2000 respondents have been directed to engage applicants as and when work becomes available, we would expect that their claims for re-engagement would be considered by respondents for the ensuing hot weather season.
