Murad Nagar who directed him to join at his place of posting. The applicant could not join at that time because he did not get his transfer ~~order~~ T.A. as mentioned in the transfer order dated 21.12.1998 and, therefore, he joined on 29.5.2000 and is claiming to be paid salary for the intervening period. Learned counsel for the respondents states that period for which he is claiming salary was treated as an unauthorised absence and the applicant was also charge-sheeted. The applicant on the other hand states that a final decision for the ~~unauthorised~~ absence has already been taken on 13.07.01 and the applicant has also been punished by that order. The question of paying salary for the period for which he has been punished does not arise. If he is aggrieved by that order, he should file appeal before the authorities, who shall decide his-- appeal in accordance with law. The O.A. is, therefore, dismissed. No order as to cost.
