SHRI S.K.HAJRA, MEMBER (ADMINISTRATIVE)

Respondent No.3 issued office order, dated 2.6.1995 (Annexure A/6), adopting six-day week in two shifts with every second Saturday of the month as holiday for the Direct Data Entry (D.D.E.) Unit of his office. Respondent no.2 replied on 24.7.1995 (Annexure A/8) to the Secretary General, AICEF, Directorate of Census Operations, Orissa, assigning reasons for introduction of six-day week.

Sm

2. Aggrieved by the introduction of six-day week, the applicants, who were working in D.D.E.Unit of the office of respondent no.3, filed this Original Application with prayer to quash Annexures A/6 and A/8.

3. Arguments advanced by Shri S.N.Mishra, learned counsel for the applicants, are as follows. Government of India introduced five-day week in all administrative offices by order, dated 21.5.1985 (Annexure A/1). D.D.E.Unit of the office of respondent no.3 worked for five days a week from 1985 to 1995. To the dismay of the applicants, respondent no.3 introduced six-day week for D.D.E. Unit of his office by the impugned order at Annexure A/6, but the administrative personnel in his office continued ^{to} work for five days a week. All the officers of D.D.E. Unit had opted for working for five days a week. ^{The} introduction of six-day week, which resulted in D.D.E.Unit working for 42 hours a week whereas the administrative personnel work for 40 hours a week, is arbitrary and discriminatory, apart from eroding efficiency of the staff of D.D.E.Unit. Six-day week is followed by few field Departments in Government of India. But the applicants, working in D.D.E.Unit, are not field level functionaries and they work in offices.

4. Shri B.Dash, learned Additional Standing Counsel, appearing for the respondents, argued as follows. The applicants filed this Original Application without making a representation to respondent no.3, exhausting the departmental remedy. The fixation of six-day week for D.D.E.Unit of the office of respondent no.3 was done pursuant to the Office Memorandum, dated 26.5.1995 (Annexure R/3) issued by respondent no.2. This was done, as explained in the aforesaid Office Memorandum, to enhance the operational efficiency of the D.D.E.Unit, to mitigate the transport problem of the employees, and to bring about uniformity. Some offices like C.P.W.D., Printing Press, have field units working for six days a week. There is no disparity in the working hours between census staff and D.D.E staff. The introduction of working hours (six-day week for D.D.E.Unit) is a policy matter which is not to be adjudicated in a court case.

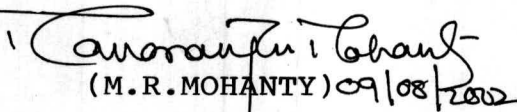

5. We heard both sides and perused the records. It is indisputable that several Government of India offices like post offices, C.P.W.D., Central Government Health Scheme, work for six days a week to meet the growing and varying needs of the public and the Department. So, the characterisation of fixation of six-day week for the staff of D.D.E.Unit in the office of respondent no.3 as arbitrary and discriminatory does not stand to reason. As explained in the letter, dated 24.7.1995 (Annexure A/8), of respondent no.2, six-day week for staff of the D.D.E.Unit was introduced to mitigate the transport problem of the employees, to enhance productivity, and to remove operational fatigue caused by long continuous working hours. The six-day week for the staff in D.D.E.Centres was introduced in all offices of Directorate of Census Operations throughout the country by Office Memorandum, dated 26.5.1995 (Annexure ^{of respondent no.2.} R/3) / This was an administrative measure calculated to improve the productivity of the employees working in D.D.E.Centres and mitigate the transport problem faced by some employees. There is no ground for interfering with such a decision, ^{because} more so it does not constitute violation of any statutory rules.

6. In short, we see no reason for interfering with the impugned orders at Annexures A/6 and A/8.

7. For the reasons given above, this Original Application is dismissed without any costs.
