superannuate and it is difficult for him to go on transfer at this stage. The applicant is to superannuate at the end of June, 2002.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant has pleaded that the transfer would cause him lot of hardship in regard to settlement of his pension retiral benefits etc. and therefore he may be retained at Pune itself.

3. The respondents in the written reply have pointed out that the post which the applicant is holding has itself been shifted to Ratnagiri and therefore the applicant has to go alongwith the post to Ratnagiri.

4. The learned counsel for the applicant contends that the decision was taken to shift the post to Ratnagiri way back in December, 2000 but it was not given effect to by the respondents till October, 2001, the respondents could accommodate the applicant for a few more months by retaining the post at Pune till the applicant superannuates.

5. The applicant further requests that he may be allowed to give a detailed representation to the respondents for reconsidering his case in the light of the reply now given by the respondents.

6. This is a matter of transfer. Normally the Courts/Tribunal are not to entertain the transfer matters unless they are malafide or against the statutory rules. In the present case it is only that the post which the applicant is holding has been transferred to Ratnagiri. there is no malafide involved.

7. It is purely an administrative transfer. The applicant has quoted the guidelines regarding transfer. It is true that the guidelines prescribe that normally when a person is left with only one or two years of service before superannuation he is required to be posted in his home town or not to be disturbed, but that is in normal circumstances. Here is a case of shifting of the post itself. We are not persuaded to interfere in this. Therefore, we are unable to consider the relief sought by the applicant. Accordingly the interim stay granted is vacated. It will however be open to the applicant to give a representation to the respondents and it is for the respondents to consider the same. O.A. is dismissed with no order as to costs.

8. A copy of this order may be supplied to the parties within 24 hours.
