(Shri M.S. Padmarajaiah, CGSSC)

This application having come up for hearing to-day, Vice-Chairman made the following.

O R D E R

As the questions that arise for determination in these cases are common, we propose to dispose of them by a common order.

2. Applicants in Applications Nos. 398,399,439 to 442 of 1987, who are working as "Extra Departmental Agents" ('EDAs') of Kolar Division, are governed by the Post and Telegraphs Extra Departmental Agents Conduct Rules ('EDA Rules'). All other applicants are working as Casual Labourers (mazdoors), in one or the other office of Bangalore Sorting Division of the Postal Department.

3. In his Notification No. BIII/1/86-87, dated 11.3.1987, (Annexure-H), the Senior Superintendent, Sorting Division, Bangalore ('Superintendent') called for applications from eligible EDAs, of his Division, to appear for a literary test to be held on 21.6.1987, for recruitment to Group-D posts of that Division only. As this notification, does not permit the applicants to appear for the test to be held on 21.6.1987 and the consequent recruitment to Group-D posts of the Division, the applicants in separate but identical applications made under Section 19 of the Administrative Tribunals Act, 1985 ('Act'), have sought for a declaration to appear for the test and the consequent recruitment to Group-D posts of the Division.

4. The applicants have urged, that under the Indian Posts and Telegraphs (Class IV posts) Recruitment Rules, 1970 ('Rules') they have a right to appear for the test and for recruitment to Group-D posts and the same had been illegally denied by the Superintendent.

(3) Part time casual labourers provided they satisfy the same conditions for absorption as specified for test category posts.

(4) Nominees of the Employment Exchange.

A.I. No.1 which defines the scope of the service restricts the area of selection to a Unit or Division only. While AI No.7 regulates test category posts AI No.9 regulates non-test category posts.

11. The 'boy peons' category referred to in A.I.No.7 as a fact, does not any more exist in Karnataka Circle and therefore, the provision made for them cannot be operated or had become obsolete as pleaded by the respondents which fact, is not disputed by the applicant. We, therefore, accept this plea of the respondents as correct. With this, it also follows that the question of preferring 'boy peons' for test category, will not arise.

12. When the category of boy peons is excluded, then the other clauses of AI No.7 provides for preference in the order indicated therein. The preference to one category necessarily excludes the other category. On the language of these instructions, it is obvious that one category necessarily excludes the other category. The latter or other category could be preferred, only if the former were not available. If there are boy peons, they have to be preferred to the exclusion of all other categories. This is how the cycle should run or move.

13. What is true of AI No.7 is also true of AI No.9, reproduced earlier.

14. The respondents claim that the AIs and AI Nos.1, 7 and 9 have been issued by the DG P&T under Notes 1 to 3 of the Schedule to the Rules and are intra vires of the Rules. Whether this is so or not, is the short and interesting question that calls for examination.

15. Before ascertaining the true scope and ambit of the Rules and some of their provisions on which reliance is placed by the respondents to support their case, it is well to remember the observations of BHAGWATI, J. (as His Lordship then was) in K.P. VARGHESE vs. ITO, ERNAKULAM (AIR 1981 S.C. 1922) explaining the progressive rule of construction of statutes. Therein the learned Judge explained the same in these inimitable words:

"..... The task of interpretation of a statutory enactment is not a mechanical task. It is more than a mere reading of of mathematical formulae because few words possess the precision of mathematical symbols. It is an attempt to discover the intent of the legislature from the language used by it and it must always be imperfect instrument for the expression of human thought and as pointed out by Lord Denning, it would be idle to expect every statutory provision to be "drafted with divine pre-science and perfect clarity". We can do no better than repeat the famous words of Judge Learned Hand when he said: "..... it is true that the words used, even in their literal sense, are the primary and ordinarily the most reliable, source of interpreting the meaning of any writing: be it a statute, a contract or anything else. But it is one of the surest indexes of a mature and developed jurisprudence not to make a fortress out of the dictionary; but to remember that statutes always have some purpose or object to accomplish, whose sympathetic and imaginative discovery is the surest guide to their meaning". We must not adopt a strictly literal interpretation of Section 52 sub section (2) but we must construe its language having regard to the object and purpose which the legislature had in view in enacting that provision and in the context of the setting in which it occurs. We cannot ignore the context and the collocation of the provisions in which Section 52 sub section (2) appears, because, as pointed out by Judge Learned Hand in most felicitous language: "..... the meaning of a sentence may be more than that of the separate words, as a melody is more than the notes, and no degree of particularity can ever obviate recourse to the setting in which all appear, and which all collectively create"....."

Bearing these and other well-settled rules of construction of statutes, we now proceed to ascertain the the scope of the Rules and the particular provisions of the Rules.

16. Rules 1, 2 and 3 of the Rules, which deal with short title and commencement, application, classification and scale of pay, are not material and therefore a detailed analysis of them is not necessary.

17. Rule 4 of the Rules, which regulates the method of recruitment, age limit and other qualifications and the three Notes appended to the Schedule which are material, read thus:

4. Method of recruitment, age limit and other qualifications: The method of recruitment to the said posts, age limit, qualifications and other matters relating thereto shall be as specified in columns 4 to 12 of the schedule aforesaid.

Provided that the upper age limit prescribed for direct recruitment may be relaxed in the case of persons belonging to Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other special categories in accordance with the orders issued by the Central Government from time to time. "

SCHEDULE

X X X X

- Note:-1. The syllabus of the test and the minimum pass marks for recruitment to posts at 1 in subordinate offices shall be as laid down by the DG P&T from time to time, before commencement of the examination.
2. Extra Departmental Staff may be considered against the vacancies for direct recruitment in subordinate offices subject to such conditions and in such manner as may be decided by the DG P&T from time to time.
3. Casual Labourers and part-time casual labourers may be considered against the vacancies for direct recruitment subject to the such conditions laid down by the DG P&T from time to time.

The method of recruitment to the Group-D posts is really found in this Schedule.

18. The three Notes added to the Schedule have to be read as part of the Rules.

19. Note-1 of the Schedule empowers DG P&T, to prescribe the syllabus of the test and the minimum pass marks for recruitment from time to time. The true scope and ambit of this Note does not bear on the question.

20. Notes 2 and 3 of the Schedule deal with Extra-Departmental Staff, casual labourers and part-time casual labourers respectively. Both these clauses empower the DG P&T to make provisions to consider the Extra Departmental Staff and casual labourers and part-time casual labourers for recruitment to Group-D posts, in subordinate offices and other offices, subject to such conditions and in such manner, as may be decided by him from time to time. These provisions confer powers on the DG P&T to make the Extra Departmental Staff and casual labourers and part-time casual labourers eligible for recruitment to Group-D posts, subject to such conditions and in such manner as may be decided by him. The conditions subject to which these two categories can be made eligible and the manner in which they can be made eligible, can all be regulated by the DG P&T. Thus the power conferred by Notes 2 and 3 on the DG P&T is not an absolute and unrestricted power but is a limited and restrictive power.

21. The conditions subject to which and the manner in which the Extra Departmental Staff and the casual labourers and part-time casual labourers can be made eligible, must all be settled by the DG P&T well before the tests are held for recruitment to Group-D posts. Without the DG P&T settling them well before the commencement of the tests, it will be impossible for the prospective applicants to ascertain them and appear for the tests or for the authorities to regulate their recruitment. With this broad analysis, it now remains to ascertain the true meaning of the terms "subject to such conditions and the manner in which" occurring in Notes 2 and 3 of the Schedule which we now proceed to do.

22. The Shorter Oxford English Dictionary on Historical Principles, Vol.1, defines the terms "condition and manner" as hereunder:

"condition"

1. Something demanded or required as a prerequisite to the granting or performance of something else; a provision, a stipulation.
2. Law. In a legal instrument, a provision on which its legal force or effect is made to depend.
3. Covenant, contract, treaty
4. Something that must exist or be present if something else is to be or take place; a prerequisite ME.

A handwritten signature or mark, possibly a stylized 'S' or 'L', located at the bottom left of the page.

5. A restriction or qualification
6. A clause expressing a condition in sense 4; called in logic the antecedent, in Grammar the protasis, of a conditional proposition.

Manner:

" The way in which something is done or takes place; mode of action or procedure."

We are of the view that these meanings to these two terms, are apposite in the context and therefore be preferred to all other meanings in the same and other Law Lexicons.

23. On the meanings noticed by us, the DG P&T is only empowered to stipulate conditions and the manner in which the Extra Departmental Staff and casual labourers can be made eligible for competing for Group-D posts. In other words, the DG P&T is only empowered to stipulate the conditions for eligibility of the two categories and their manner. Except for these, he is not empowered to regulate all other facets of recruitment, preferences and exclusions.

24. The conditions and the manner in which the two categories can be made eligible, cannot be exhaustively enumerated or catalogued also.

25. We have earlier reproduced Administrative Instructions Nos. 7 and 9 in extenso and analysed their legal effect also. When they are closely examined vis-a-vis, the power conferred by Notes 2 and 3 of the Schedule to the Rules, it is crystal clear, that they are wholly unauthorised and are clearly beyond the power conferred on the DG P&T. They are not also consistent with the requirements of the Rules and run counter to them.

26. Any Administrative Instruction issued by the DG P&T that runs counter to an Act of Parliament or the Rules made by the President under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution, as pointed out by us in a similar situation, in Applications Nos. 77, 130 to 133, 225 to 236 and 241 to 249 of 1987(F) decided on 11th April, 1987 (National Union of EDAs, Karnataka-Circle Branch, Kolar Division -vs.- The Post Master General in Karnataka) (Unions Case) is required to be ignored by all and recruitment regulated only in conformity with the Rules. On this view, the objection on the absence of the DG P&T as a formal party respondent and a formal prayer to strike them down urged by Sri Padmarajaiah is without any merit and we overrule the same.

27. Shri Achar, next contends that on the terms of Note-2 of the Schedule to the Rules, all Extra Departmental Staff working in all offices were eligible to appear for the test and the same cannot be restricted to, only to those working in a particular Division.

28. Shri Padmarajaiah contends that on a true construction of Note-2 of the Schedule, only the Extra Departmental Staff working in that particular Division were eligible to appear for the test and the provision made was legal.

29. We have earlier reproduced Rule 4 of the Rules, the Schedule and Note-2 thereof, in their entirety. Note-2 of the Schedule to the Rules, refers to subordinate offices. The term "subordinate offices" occurring in the Note, cannot be construed as referable to anyone particular subordinate office. The term "subordinate offices" means all subordinate offices of the Department. In this context, the same cannot be restricted to any particular subordinate office or any particular Division or area, as construed by the DG P&T and the respondents. Even otherwise, a construction which favours greater competition by all eligible candidates should normally be preferred to a construction which unduly restricts the same. From this, it follows that every member of the departmental staff working in any of the subordinate offices, by whatever name they are called like administrative offices, is eligible to apply, subject to such terms and conditions and the manner to be regulated by the DG P&T.

30. We need hardly say that Extra Departmental Staff according to their ^{job} requirements, duties and responsibilities shouldered by them are far superior to the category of casual labourers. But, unfortunately, the rules do not provide any special preference to them though such a provision, was in public interest. As in Union's case, we find that there are many gaps and deficiencies in the Rules and the Circular Instructions, which though made with a laudable object, unfortunately run counter to the Rules. We do hope and trust that appropriate steps will be taken to remedy the situation.

31. In the light of our above discussions, we make the following orders and directions:

- (1) We declare that Administrative Instructions 7 and 9 issued by the DG P&T contrary to the Rules, cannot be enforced by the respondents.
- (2) We quash Notification No.8 III/1/86-87 dated 11.3.1987 (Annexure-H) in Application Nos.253 to 257 of 1987 issued by the Superintendent. But, it is open to the Superintendent and other appropriate authorities to issue a fresh notification and call for applications from all eligible candidates and make recruitment to Group-D posts, in accordance with law and the observations made in this order.

32. Applications are disposed of in the above terms. But, in the circumstances of the cases, we direct the parties to bear their own costs.
