RESPONDENTS

(By Advocate - Shri M.N. Banerjee)

O R D E R

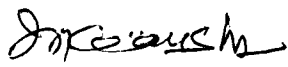

Heard the learned counsel for the parties. At the very out set the learned counsel for the respondents drawn our towards attention/order dated 17 April 2000 passed in OA 302/00 which was filed by the same applicant before this Bench of Tribunal in the same matter. In Para 3 of reply is very specific objection has been taken that the applicant had earlier filed an OA in the same matter and the same was withdrawn without any liberty to file fresh Original Application Thus the very Original Application is not maintainable since the same is hit by doctrine of res judicata.

2. On the other hand the learned counsel for the applicant submits that due to inadvertance the word liberty has not been mentioned in the order. Otherwise he had filed earlier

Original Application which contained multipule reliefs.

We find that there is no document to countenance his contentions. We understand that earlier OA is withdrawn simplicitor and the same was not decided in the merit ~~but~~, <sup>Thus</sup> the applicant cannot be permitted to file another OA in the same matter. It may not be a case of res judicata but definitely it would a case of bench hunting. The same is not permissible in law. There the Original Application is not maintainable and the same stands dismissed. No costs.
