O R D E R (ORAL)(HON'BLE DR. K.B. SURESH, MEMBER (J))

Heard. We had heard the matter earlier in O.A. No. 4/2013 and passed the following order which clearly explains the issue involved in it:

"O R D E R (ORAL)(HON'BLE DR. K.B. SURESH, MEMBER (J))

1. Heard. The Hon'ble High Court of Karnataka had quashed Annexure A-5 dated 03.07.2012. In our order we had not quashed Annexure A-5, but took it to mean that it had no relevance at all. But, we had quashed Annexure A-4 order dated 28.11.2011. In fact, the applicant was considered vide our earlier order dated 3.3.2009 on the basis of then existing rules prior to 2002. Therefore, we had considered it as applicable to the applicant. Therefore, on this basis Annexure A-5 was not considered to be relevant. Therefore, we had quashed only Annexure A-4. Therefore, after hearing both sides and having given both sides ample opportunity, we hereby grant consequent upon the quashment of Annexure A-5 by the Hon'ble High Court of Karnataka that the eligibility of the applicant for promotion had arisen on 21.8.2001 and it will now be considered that his appointment as Group D has commenced on that date and all the benefits available to the applicant may be calculated and granted to him including his pensionary benefits within 3 months next.

2. OA is allowed as above. No order as to costs".

2. Merely because some pleadings are made, it is not incumbent upon any Court to examine it if it creates an absurd situation. It is correct that the applicant has given a representation and no one had paid heed to it but we had disposed the matter on merits and held that, on the basis of the previous orders we had already passed, the applicant became eligible to be appointed before 2002. If for any fault of the respondents the applicant had not been taken as being appointed before 2002, the prejudice of it cannot fall on the shoulders of the applicant. The earlier OA is reiterated.

3. Therefore the OA is allowed. The benefits to be made available to the applicant within two months next. No order as to costs.
