She submitted that the pension could not be released due to non furnishing of life certificate and a fresh PPO would be required.

3. To join issue learned counsel for applicant invited our attention to the certificate issued by the Bank itself on 24.06.2015, clearly and indubitably certifying that Niyati Das wife of late Brikodar Das is a holder of family pension in Pension Payment Order No. 02012145101, and is alive.

4. In view of such certificate, clearly certifying on 24.06.2015 that the pension holder was alive as on 24.06.2015, in our considered opinion there was no occasion for the respondent to stop the family pension unless any contrary information was received by them.

B.

6. Moreover, in view of the certificate dated 24.06.2015 there would be no question to file any fresh PPO for continuity of the payment of family pension.

7. Therefore, we direct the respondents to grant the payment of family pension regularly from the date it was stopped with arrears and with statutory interest, as would be payable, in accordance with law, to be released within one month from the date of communication of this order.
