8.7 Grant such other and further reliefs, as the nature and circumstances of this application may require for dispensing justice."

4. The facts of the matter are that, following an advertisement dated 2-8.04.2016 for inviting applications for 25 vacancies for various posts and 15 for the post of MTS, candidates applied and after scrutiny of applications, candidates appeared in written test and skill/practical test and on this basis, they were given appointments on the posts applied. The appointment orders were issued on 09.12.2016 for different posts and the applicants were placed under probation for two years with the condition that during the probation period, the applicants services were liable to be terminated at any time without notice. Based on some complaints lodged by unsuccessful candidates, inquiry was conducted by the respondents and the following irregularities were identified by the respondents as

(a) Irregularity in Scrutiny of Application Forms: Non compliance of various instructions, rules, guidelines published in employment news as Recruitment Rules of various trades during scrutiny board and allowed a number of negligible candidates to participate in written exam. The scrutiny board did not sift out candidates not possessing the 'essential' qualification prescribed in the advertisement published in the 'Employment News'. For Example: this led to one candidate selected as CMTD & one candidate selected as a painter not possessing the essential qualification mandated for the post, which is a serious irregularity.

(b) Not following Standard Operating Procedure during evaluation of Answer Sheets: No instruction was issued in Question Paper cum Answer sheet prepared for MTS trade by Selection Board regarding negative marking and the Board also failed to evaluate Answer Sheets of MTS Trade with negative marking. Negative marking for MTS Trade paper is prescribed in the policy and same was not followed in the instant case. A copy of the said policy is enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure R-1.

(c) Wrong evaluation of Answer Sheets: The selection Board failed to ensure proper evaluation and verification of Answer Sheets of candidates of Written Examination. It has emerged during the sample check of papers that there were evaluation errors ranging from +24 marks to -12 marks in the answer papers of the candidates. Further, many of the Question cum Answer sheets did not have the signature of the evaluators putting into question the veracity of the same. The Court of Inquiry after going through the answer sheets of all the candidates who had appeared in the practical exams was of the opinion that the anomalies were of serious nature and would have cascading effect on merit list of written test of candidates in various trades. The sample of evaluation of answer sheet (Table No.30 of Court of Inquiry Proceedings) is submitted as Annexure-R2.

(d) Wrongly adding of practical/skill test marks while preparing merit list:

The Selection Board violated the Government policy letter No.Air HQ/23049/DR/SOP/PC-3 dated 22 Jan 2016 which had mandated the selection/merit list on the basis of marks obtained in written test. The policy is to select the candidates based on their marks in written exam subject to qualifying in nature. However, the Selection Board has added the marks obtained in practical which has altered the merit list and consequently the right of meritorious candidates have been violated due to not applying the recruitment policy. The photocopy of policy letter dated 22 Jan 2016 is submitted as Annexure -R3.

5. As the OAs involve common question of facts and law, with the consent of the parties, all the OAs are being heard together and decided by a common order.

6. The respondents claim that these were major errors and violations which completely vitiated the selection process and rendered the appointments invalid due to the gross violation of the relevant rules, instructions, standard operating procedures and recruitment policy. The Court of Inquiry appointed by them for the purpose, also referred to the selection having suffered from inconsistency in the manner by which the procedures had been gone through. On this basis, a show cause notice was given to various applicants and they were terminated from service prior to completion of their probation period.

7. The learned counsel for the applicant has argued that the show cause notice was based on a pre-determination by the Court of Inquiry and was a meaningless procedure that was not seriously followed by the respondents and he further submits that the applicants have been grievously affected for no fault of theirs especially in the circumstance that none of the applicants have been specifically pointed out as offenders in respect of various deficiencies identified by the Court of Inquiry. He also explained that the applicants have duly appeared in the examination and served for nearly two years and had, after setting their domestic arrangements, they have been badly affected by the abrupt termination.

8. With reference to the four aspects of deficiencies pointed out by the Court of Inquiry, he argues that there were no complaints against the applicant and simply because of faults that could be attributable to the respondents and the officials under their control, the applicants cannot be gravely hurt. He also questions the basis on which the Court of Inquiry and the respondents came to the conclusion upon identifying these particular issues and problems that came into selection process, only on en bloc cancellation was the sole way ahead and he suggested that it could have been possible for correction to have been made in the process by the respondents to arrive at a final, fair selection.

9. The learned counsel for the respondents argues that the respondents are responsible for the conduct of examination strictly in accordance with the Rules and the of Constitution and equal treatment is necessary to be granted to all the candidates who appear in the process. He made detailed reference to the four reasons cited by the Court of Inquiry by which it is found that the irregularities in scrutiny were in drastic non-compliance of both the instructions, rules, guidelines and recruitment rules which had led to two candidates who did not posses essential qualifications being included in the select list.

10. Further, the requirement of negative marking for the MTS trade paper was prescribed in the standard operating procedure policy document of the respondents and that has not been incorporated in the present process. He also referred to a variety of errors in evaluation of the written papers of the candidates which effectively range from minus 12 marks to plus 24 marks and the grave deviations seen in these marks, had-clearly resulted in an irremediable distortion of the final select list.

11. Further, he also refer to the wrong addition of practical/skill test marks while preparing the selection list which is incompatible with the policy and supplements the various errors and deviations that had affected the selection proceedings.

12. The learned counsel for the respondents also informs the court that suitable disciplinary action has been taken against the concerned officers and the members of the Selection Committee for violation of rules and they have been punished. The learned counsel for the respondents further submits that a fresh selection examination has also been conducted on 22.06.2019 and all the applicants have participated in this selection process but the results have not been published because of the interim orders passed by this Tribunal. He also submits that for this fresh selection, the applicants and the persons who had applied against the previous advertisement have been considered as per their eligibility on the date of their former advertisement and wherever age relaxation was required, such age relaxation has been granted to them.

13. The learned counsels for the parties have been heard carefully. The applicants have pleaded that they have suffered grievously. The learned counsel for the respondents further assures that the respondents have conducted the fresh selection without being prejudiced by the applicants in the present OAs. We also do not find anything wrong in the impugned orders of the respondents wherein they have indicated the authority to terminate the temporary appointment of the applicants who were then on probation at the time of termination and in which they have also cited reasons and basis for the said termination orders.

14. In view of the aforesaid facts and submissions, when the findings of the Court of Inquiry, referred to herein above is neither under challenge nor any reasons cited to question the impartiality thereof, we do not find any merit in the aforesaid OAs. It is also directed to the respondents that the decision of the selection process may be taken forward for which the previous interim order already granted in the matter stands withdrawn. Accordingly, the aforesaid OAs are disposed of. No order as to costs.

15. Pending MAs also stand disposed of.
